DEMOCRATIC TICKET NAMED

County Convention Met This Morning and Formed Committees on Resolution and Organization.

HON FRANK J. HALL CHAIRMAN

Went Into Session at 1:30 O'clock This Afternoon and Selected County Nominees.

To the music of the Manilla Military band, the Democrats of Rush county marched to the Star Grand airdome this morning where they perfected a temporary organization. The first thing done was the appointing of the committees on organization and resolution, with the assistance of Temporary Chairman Samuel L. Trabue. The committees were formed of one man from each township delegation. The committee on resolution met in the office of Newbold & Oneal as soon as adjournment was taken, and the one on organization convened in the office of Thomas Arbuckle. The meeting of the four county council districts were also held this afternoon at one o'clock at various offices in the city.

At one-thirty the convention was called to order by permanent chairman, Frank J. Hall. E. B. Vickery, chairman of the committee on organization, read the report of his committee, which was approved by the assembled body. The next thing in order was the reading of the report on resolutions made by the resolution committee, which had Thomas Arbuckle as its chairman. In the platform which was drawn up Marshall was endorsed for the Presidency in 1912; Kern and Shively for the United States senate; and the extravagance of the Republican administration was deplored.

The convention then turned its attention to the nomination of candidates to head the Democratic county ticket this fall. William Newbold of this city was nominated for representative; William M. McBride of this city for treasurer; Orval Sampson of Posey township, for recorder; A. H. Hopper of Washington township for sheriff; Adolphus Cameron of this township was nominated by acclamation for county surveyor; Dr. Roland T. Blount of this city, was nominated by acclamation for county coroner; George Clark was nominated for county assessor by acclamation on motion of James Tarplee, whose name was also put before the convention; Thomas Dill of this township was placed on the ticket by acclamation for the office of commissioner of the middle district; William Fisher was put on the ticket for commissioner from the southern district by acclamation. The county councilmen at large nominated were Wilbur Brown, William O. Frazee and John Logan, all of whom were nominated by acclamation. The other four councilmen nominated were John Siler, Samuel Overleese, Oliver N. Megee and Robert J. Brooks. The convention then adjourned.

FORMER TRUSTEE WAS VINDICATED

Court Ruled That All of the Township's Money Had Been Accounted For.

SUED TO RECOVER ABOUT $3,000

Jacob Hauser, a former trustee of Anderson township, Perry county, was vindicated of a charge of exceeding appropriations by the circuit court at Tell City one day recently. The case against Hauser was started after an investigation of his reports by the field examiners sent out by the State board of accounts. Upon their investigation a suit was filed to recover $3,000 which they charged had been falsely used by him. In the trial sufficient evidence was brought in to show that all of the township's money had been accounted for and that the township had received full value for all of its expenditures although it was proven that some of the amounts were larger than the appropriations.

LOVABLE WOMAN CROSSES RIVER

Mrs. Namah Meredith Succumbs to a Stroke of Paralysis Which She Had a Fortnight Ago.

LIFE IS FULL OF INTEREST

The Breaking of the Companionship With Mrs. Susan Tingley is Full of Pathos.

Mrs. Namah Meredith, who is familiarly known throughout this community by the simple and respectful name, "Aunt Namie," was called to her reward this morning at eleven o'clock at the Meredith home in North Morgan street, from a stroke of paralysis which she suffered about two weeks ago. Her life was one full of pathos and interest. She never courted sympathy, for she was an optimist of the most perfectly developed kind. Above all she was a perfect type of the Christian woman, who saw the happy side of everything through faith, and faith alone.

"Aunt Namie" was born in Ontario county, New York, on June seventh, 1828. She resided in that county with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jabez Ward, until she was twelve years of age, and from there she and her parents moved to Venango county, Pennsylvania, where she grew into womanhood. She was a pioneer teacher in that county and there she fell in love with children and the events and things that would make of them strong men and women. In 1854 she went to Bedford, Iowa, where she taught school until 1859, when she married Joseph C. Meredith, who was a brother of the late Thomas Meredith of this city. In 1861 her husband and a ten-months-old child, which had blessed the union, were both taken into the great beyond. Her careful attention to both her husband and child through their illness weakened her health, which she never fully regained in all her life.

In 1861 she came to this county, where she re-entered the teaching profession at various schools throughout the county. Her health completely failed her early in the seventies and she went to a ranch near Boulder, Colorado, which was owned by her brother, Calvin Ward, and there she remained until his death, which left her again a creature of circumstance. After his death she came back to this city, where she had resided ever since. About eight years ago she and Mrs. Susan Tingley took habitation together in West Fifth street, where they have resided in a companionship that if it was thoroughly known to the world would serve as a tremendous example of the brotherhood of man and the sisterhood of woman. Perhaps to no one does her death come with such a shock as to her venerable sister, Mrs. Tingley. The beauty of their lives together is far beyond the power of human description.

ATTENDS REGIMENT REUNION.

Arthur McClain of Emerson, Iowa, is here for a few days' visit with old friends and comrades. Mr. McClain attended his regimental reunion at Lawrenceburg in company with James Ruddle of west of Rushville. Mr. McClain is an old Rush county boy, leaving here in 1875 after purchasing a farm in Iowa in 1872.

COUNTY FAIR WAS IN THE AIR TODAY

Race Horses Began Arriving and Were Led Through Downtown Streets to the Ground.

STAND MEN COMING IN DROVES

Floral and Agricultural Hall as Well as Stock Entries Are Expected to be Good.

Already stuff has begun to arrive for what is believed will be the greatest fair in the history of Rush county. The fair board and managers are anticipating large crowds and the best all around exhibition in the history of the institution in this county. Everything points to success as the men, who have been "scouting" for the fair for the past few weeks say that they have many promises from stand, stock, show and race horse men to come here.

The city began to take on the old fair ground appearance yesterday when the first race horse of the bunch that will be here was led through the downtown streets and out to the fair ground to be entered in the races. There were many more fast horses arrived today, most of them from Lebanon and Columbus, where the county fairs just closed yesterday.

The men who have been looking after concessions say that the best crowd of stand men which ever attended the local fair, will be here this year. They have been visiting all of the fairs for the past few weeks and everywhere they have met with the promise to attend the local exhibition. All of the old stand men, who make Rushville every year, are out this season and they are now headed this way.

The stock and show department, which is always up to a very high standard, will be up to the average this year. The "scouts" for the fair have met with some very fine show stuff around the circuit this year, but they say that very little of it can compare favorably with the stock which is led into the show ring here. Many of the fancy show horses from adjoining counties, which have been shown all around the circuit this season, will be entered here. The men in charge of the cattle, hogs, and sheep department are all expecting a long list of entries. The floral and agricultural halls will not be trailing either, for it is expected that these two departments will come up to the standard of former years. Already many entries have been made in each of the halls.

The show feature this year will be Van's famous educated high school horses. He has a show which is highly touted as a very fine entertainment by all of the fair boards, where it has appeared previously. The show will be the biggest attraction at the fair this year and is expected to receive a liberal patronage.

The balloon races will come off as scheduled unless the secretary has failed in his purpose. He expects the two balloonists to go up at the same time and a contest will be the result. They are both high class aerial artists and will not think of being outdone by a competitor.

Several local people will have stands this year. The Uniform Rank, Knights of Pythias, will have a large stand and have contracted for the grand stand privilege. Charles Applegate, the crackerjack man, will be at his old stand and a number of other local people are planning to take concessions.

The highest kite flight on record was made by Weather Bureau experts near Washington in May when an altitude of 23,826 feet above sea level was attained.

COLISEUM BALL STARTED ON ROLL

Finance and Building Committees Appointed This Morning by the Chautauqua Association.

PLANS ARE MADE DEFINITE

The ball has been started on the roll to raise money for the dreamed-of coliseum and with a little effort it is sure to gain momentum rather than lose it. This morning part of the chautauqua organization met in the offices of Watson, Titsworth & Green and the first step toward planned and definite action was taken. A building committee was appointed which will have as its members, T. M. Green, as chairman, and E. H. Payne and Dr. C. H. Parsons. A finance committee was appointed with F. E. Wolcott, as chairman, and T. A. Craig, Will M. Bliss, J. H. Scholl, Raymond Hargrove and E. H. Payne as members. The finance committee drew up the following article on which they will immediately start to obtain stockholders:

"We, each of us, hereby subscribe and agree for the number of shares of stock set opposite our names of the face value of $25 each in the Rush County Chautauqua Association for the purpose of raising a sum not in excess of $4,000 with which to build a pavilion in which to hold the annual entertainment of said association and such other meetings as may be desired to hold therein. All subscriptions payable in three and six months respectively from November 1, 1910, without interest until after due. All money subscribed and not used in the construction and equipment of said building to be pro-rated to subscribers. The association to have the privilege of calling in any shares of said stock at any time for redemption at par value without interest."

LOCAL HORSES AT LIBERTY.

Mobella, a bay pacing mare, was entered in the 2:26 pace at the Union county fair yesterday by William Dagler, and succeeded in winning third money of the $250 purse. Jerome was started in the 2:25 trot and was driven by Bruce Graham and took fourth money. Jerome was second in the last heat of the race which was paced in 2:24 1/4.

WELL KNOWN WOMAN DIES

Mrs. Henry Orme Succumbs to Paralysis this Morning at Her Home West First Street.

FUNERAL MONDAY MORNING.

She is Survived by Six Children, All of Whom are Residents of This County.

Mrs. Minerva Orme, who was the widow of the late Henry Orme, died at her home in West First street, at two o'clock this morning. Several weeks ago Mrs. Orme suffered a stroke of paralysis which was the direct cause of her death. For the last few days before her death her condition had gradually grown worse by degrees and her family was prepared, seeing that death was imminent.

Mrs. Orme was born in Fleming county Kentucky, on September the twenty-second, 1830. When about ten years of age she came to this county with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Morrison. Early in life she became a member of the Christian church, and since that time she has been a devout, untiring and cheerful worker in every line of work that was taken up by the church, where individual effort was needed.

The survivors of Mrs. Orme are six in number, and all are residents of this county. It is very seldom that one finds a parent mourned by six children all of whom have made their native locality their permanent residence. Her survivors are William Orme, Ray Orme, Bert Orme, Mrs. John Miller, Mrs. Samuel Webster and Mrs. Newell Hungerford. The funeral services will be held at the Main Street Christian church Monday morning at ten o'clock and will be conducted by the Rev. R. W. Abberley. Burial will be made in the Orme cemetery on the family homestead, which is about five miles southwest of this city.

THE WEATHER.

Generally fair tonight and Sunday. Slightly warmer in south and central portion.

FIERY STEEDS BEING PUT IN THE PINK OF CONDITION

Country Boys Training Their "Drivers" For the Feature Event of Second Day of the Fair.

ROAD RACE WILL BE HELD

The country boys will be at the height of their glory on Wednesday of the fair. It is then that the long-looked-for and much-anticipated road race will take place. It is then that the fiery steeds will be pitted against one another "night unto death" or something like that, when the drivers will reap the rewards of their careful training which has been going on ever since the fair board announced that a road race would be held at the county fair. The road race promises to be the feature attraction of the second day of the fair due to the intense local interest in that particular event.

Few people realize the greatness of the coming speed event which will bring together the best road horses in Rush county and that means much more, for Rush county has produced fast horses and can produce more. The valiant animals which have been doing duty as "drivers" are now hitched to the light cart and are "putting on airs." They hardly know their lesser brothers and sisters who have not yet reached that stage where they can clip off a mile around forty or perhaps three minutes would be a conservative time limit.

It has been the sole ambition of many of the boys of Rush county to have a horse which will look well in that race on Wednesday. It will not be a common, ordinary road race, when the leader will lag out before he does a turn around the circuit once. No, this is to be a professional race, almost. That is, there will be no professional race horses allowed although they might as well be. The country horses which will be entered have been in training for the past month. A day never passes that two or three amateur drivers do not have the prizes of their hearts, impersonated by horse flesh, out on the track, giving them a few miles to "get them in condition." A horse which has ever been trained or which has ever been in a race for money, can not enter.

There is considerable interest in the race. Many of the country boys think that they have the best looking entry of the bunch and they are willing to back their belief with a green-back or two. It is said that a few may be placed on the side to see really which has the best stepper. Time will tell the story.

RUSHVILLE FORTUNATE SINCE TYPHOID GERM HAS NOT KNOCKED AT HER DOOR

Disease Has Been Noticeable by Its Absence Which is History Since Present Water Came.

CITIES RAVAGED BY FEVER

Rushville is indeed fortunate.

Rushville is doubly fortunate in that she has not been compelled to ward off the ravages of a typhoid fever scare. The residents of the city have not suffered with one case of typhoid fever this season and there is more to the story. It is not very likely that there will be any case, largely due to the sanitary conditions and the city water.

The city water is the largest factor in keeping the typhoid germ from knocking at Rushville's door. In nearly all of the cases where typhoid fever has reaped a rich reward, the source of the germ is generally traced to the water. Fortunately Rushville's city water is pure and in no manner can become contaminated.

Local physicians say that the absence of the dread fever is due to the city water as can be shown by the comparison with former years, before the wells were installed here to furnish water for the plant. Many older doctors who have been practicing here several years, can remember when there would not be less than two dozen cases of that disease here every season. They say that just as soon as the new water was generally used, the disease practically disappeared and has not bobbed up to any extent, since that time. Physicians say it is the history of the case, that whenever there has been a sickness with that disease, the foundation of the germ can always be traced back to unsanitary conditions and to an old well of water.

Other cities all around Rushville have been waging war against the disease and the newspapers have been carrying a warning against catching the dread disease almost daily. In many cities the germ has been found to be located in the water supply while in other places it has been different. In many instances unsanitary conditions have caused the prevalence of the sickness due to the typhoid germ.

The Fountain Head of Life Is The Stomach

A man who has a weak and impaired stomach and who does not properly digest his food will soon find that his blood has become weak and impoverished, and that his whole body is improperly and insufficiently nourished.

DR. PIERCE'S GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY makes the stomach strong, promotes the flow of digestive juices, restores the lost appetite, makes assimilation perfect, invigorates the liver and purifies and enriches the blood. It is the great blood-maker, flesh-builder and restorative nerve tonic. It makes men strong in body, active in mind and cool in judgement.

This "Discovery" is a pure, glyceric extract of American medical roots, absolutely free from alcohol and all injurious, habit-forming drugs. All its ingredients are printed on its wrappers. It has no relationship with secret nostrums. Its every ingredient is endorsed by the leaders in all the schools of medicine. Don't accept a secret nostrum as a substitute for this time-proven remedy of known composition. Ask your neighbors. They must know of many cures made by it during past 40 years, right in your own neighborhood. World's Dispensary Medical Association, Dr. R. V. Pierce, Pres., Buffalo, N. Y.

A BIG PROJECT IN NATURAL GAS

Ohio Company Has Plan to Pipe Indiana Towns.

HAS INEXHAUSTIBLE SUPPLY

As an Outlet for Its Wells the Ohio Fuel Supply Company is Seeking an Entrance Into Indiana—Company Now Supplies Gas to Sixty-Five Towns and Cities in Ohio and Wants More.

Indianapolis, Aug. 27.—L. B. Denning of Columbus, O., general counsel for the Ohio Fuel Supply company, is in Indianapolis to find what legal procedure will be necessary for his company to enter Indiana as a distributor of natural gas. The Ohio Fuel Supply company has large natural gas fields in Ohio and West Virginia and is now supplying sixty-five towns and cities of Ohio with gas, including Columbus, Toledo, Dayton and Cincinnati. The company has pipelines running from the famous "Sugar Tree" fields in Fairfield county, Ohio, and also owns a field covering 2,000,000 acres in West Virginia.

It is the purpose of the Ohio company to continue its lines into Indiana, entering the state through Richmond and continuing to Newcastle, Anderson and probably Muncie. No decision has as yet been reached as to entering Muncie, but Mr. Denning thought that city would ultimately be reached along the lines.

Mr. Denning says the supply owned by his company is practically inexhaustible, and that in time the mains will extend to several of the smaller towns in the vicinity of Anderson. He did not think the company would invade Indianapolis.

INTERESTING EXPERIMENT

Indiana University Students Working on Evolution Theory.

Mitchell, Ind., Aug. 27.—Experiments are being conducted at the Indiana university experiment station here on animals going blind when sunlight is not given them. At Donaldson's cave the fish in the caverns are blind, having no place for eyes. A lot of white rats are being kept in a room in one of the cave's caverns, and as they multiply very rapidly it is believed that within a year or two it will be known whether animals without sunlight will lose their eyes.

Experiments are also being made on blind fish by putting them in the light to see if they will develop eyes. The scientists have a pool containing several dozen fish on which they are experimenting. These experiments are carried on by students from Indiana university.

BUILDING WELL

Interesting Experiment in Tenant Homes at Gary.

Gary, Ind., Aug. 27.—A Pittsburg contractor has begun the construction of 150 concrete houses for the employees of the Gary mills of the American Sheet Steel and Tin Plate company. They will cost from $2,500 to $10,000, the more expensive ones being for the foremen and department heads. This contract aggregates $1,000,000. The homes are to be the most attractive in Lake county, and will be far superior to the other houses erected by the steel company for its employees. Should the first batch be a success, the American Bridge company will erect 300 of the same kind of houses in another part of the city for the use of its workers.

THE BOSS AT WORK

Tom Taggart Continues to "Put Them Over" on Governor Marshall.

[Special Correspondence.]

Indianapolis, Aug. 27.—No one seems to know what political advantage Thomas Taggart hopes to gain by "putting them over" on Governor Thomas R. Marshall, the logical leader of Indiana Democrats. Mr. Taggart seems to take much unholy joy in working to defeat the desires of the Marshall people. In doing this he is more often in error than right, politically. His judgment frequently is much worse than the judgment of the Marshall people. Yet the Taggart judgment prevails, time after time, in the councils of the Indiana Democratic organization, and the suggestions of Governor Marshall are set aside, ignored, or openly repudiated. The only time Governor Marshall has gained a point over Mr. Taggart was when the senatorial selection issue was forced, and the Marshall people had thirty votes more than the Taggart crowd in the state convention. That victory was not lasting, for Mr. Taggart immediately forced the selection of John W. Kern for senator when the governor preferred John A. M. Adair.

In that same Democratic state convention Mr. Taggart erased the resolution endorsing Governor Marshall for president. If this was done to punish the governor, it still is to be explained on the score of political good sense. If it was done to show Taggart's power, it was ill advised. When the Democratic state organization planned a publicity bureau, Governor Marshall tried to induce the committee to create an impartial and harmonizing bureau. Instead of joining the factions Taggart gave the matter over to a group of his faithful henchmen, leaving no one to shout for the Marshall presidential boomlet. And not a word can the Marshall people squeeze into the Taggart publicity machine in favor of Marshall for president in 1912.

Many Democrats will say that it was unnecessary for Mr. Taggart to assume personal charge of the Democratic state committee, and himself select Charley Greathouse to succeed Dr. Robert J. Alek as the Democratic candidate for state superintendent of public instruction. They will assert further that it was unnecessary to hurry through the committee's action on this matter, ignoring the governor and his earnest desire for a brief delay and careful consideration of candidates. Governor Marshall is on his vacation in Michigan. He expected to be called into conference on the important question of choosing a state candidate to fill a vacancy on the ticket. He had a right, one would suppose, to expect this courtesy, along with Senator Shively, Endorse John W. Kern, and others, including the congressional and state candidates. The governor, at least, was entitled to consideration. He was ignored. He wanted Prof. George H. Tapp appointed, or at least let it be known that Tapp, in his opinion, was a proper man for the place. Tapp was ignored. Taggart made the appointment. The committee met the day after Taggart had stated his preference and ratified the decree of the boss. The decree stands.

Governor Marshall is free to stay away and get as much Michigan breeze as possible. Taggart will not deny him all the ozone he needs. It is only when Marshall hints at political purposes that Mr. Taggart gets busy. And it is not easy to understand why Mr. Taggart repeatedly and publicly shows his petty organization power. He may have definite purposes. He may see political profit in it all. But the outsider cannot catch his drift, nor see where Taggart wins. The whole thing will come out in the November wash, and Taggart will be loser.

Who is Charley Greathouse, new Democratic committee choice for superintendent of public instruction? In the days of his football glory, many Indiana people knew him. Since he has become a wealthy Indianapolis grain broker, he has been lost in the commercial shuffle, and the educational gridiron has not known its famous fullback. He is a Tom Taggart politician, out and out. He formerly ran for superintendent of public instruction. Democrats say he ran ahead of his ticket. They do not go on to explain that even at that he was nearly 90,000 behind his Republican opponent. Charley didn't "hit the line" for much of a gain that year. The best that can be said is that he was not downed back of his own line. The next year Dr. Alek beat him for the nomination. Assuredly, from a political standpoint, the Democratic state ticket is greatly weakened when Charley Greathouse is substituted for Dr. Alek. This is the view of politicians and educators alike. Mr. Greathouse may be a giant in the educational world. Thomas Taggart apparently believes he is. But the people do not go among the small politicians and grain brokers to pick educational leaders. The people will find it easy to choose between E. C. Ferrell, the Republican candidate, and Charley Greathouse, Taggart protégé.

Boy Plows Up Treasure.
Russellville, Ky., Aug. 27.—While plowing on his father's land, near Spa, about twelve miles from here, David Coursey dug up a box containing $500 in gold and notes, which was buried during the civil war. The money was in good condition and the notes looked as good as new.

GERMAN LIKE RENT TO CENTER

The Kaiser Lets Go Another Verbal Bombshell.

WILL RULE IN HIS OWN WAY

Arrogating to Himself the Office of a Divine Delegate, Emperor William Serves Notice in a Public Speech That He Is Tired of the Restrictions of Constitutional Authority and Will Be a King Indeed.

Berlin, Aug. 27.—Emperor William has cast aside the reserve which it was officially announced he would maintain after the notorious crisis two years ago, and has thrown down the gauntlet to German Liberals in a manner which has already stirred a tempest of criticism, and is destined to convulse the empire. The occasion was a banquet at Koenigsburg, when, emulating his speeches of earlier years, his majesty arrogated to himself the office of a divine delegate, and in that character avowed his determination to rule in his own way regardless of the views or opinions of the hour. It is obvious that the speech was intended as a deliberate challenge to the ever-growing aims of Democracy in the direction of an extension of parliamentary government and other Liberal ideas.

Two years ago such a declaration would have passed almost unnoticed, it being of a type that was then frequent, but when Chancellor VonBuelow, in November, 1908, declared in the reichstag that the emperor, moved by the national agitation caused by the interview with him published in the London Telegraph, had become convinced that the greatest reserve on the part of the crown was indispensable in the interests of Germany's policy, it was accepted in good faith by the nation and the storm rumbled itself out.

His majesty's public utterances since then have been few, brief and colorless. The latest harangue, however, has awakened the press and public to the fact that the imperial volcano is not extinct, but merely dormant.

A unanimous lamentation goes up from journals of all shades of opinion. The loyalist papers receive the bombshell in the spirit of humiliating regret with which one sees or hears a valued friend make an unpardonable faux pas, while the progressive press of every grade conceals under grave rebuke the glee with which it watches another nail driven into the coffin of absolutism.

The Social Democrats are hugging themselves in delight. "This means fifty additional seats in the reichstag for us at the next election," they say, and their opponents sadly fear they speak the truth. There is the keenest curiosity concerning the attitude of Dr. Von Bethmann-Hollweg, the imperial chancellor. Did he sanction the speech, is the question of everybody. If, says the Berliner Zeitung, the kaiser's utterance had the chancellor's consent he must justify his attitude. The nation will not overlook in the first official of the empire the slightest trifling with constitutional authority.

Swindlers Work Hammond Housewives for Hundreds of Dollars.

Hammond, Ind., Aug. 27.—Men representing themselves as Chicagoans have recently swindled Hammond housewives out of hundreds of dollars. The swindle was revealed to the police by Mrs. William Dutton, who gave 50 cents a week to solicitors until she had paid in $25. When she presented receipts for this amount in Chicago, instead of receiving premiums valued at $50, as she was promised, Mrs. Dutton found the address given her was a fake. The swindlers did a land office business in the Calumet region.

PETERSON DROPS PARTY PLATFORM

Democrat Making Race For Congress on a Protective Tariff Platform.

OUT TO "CATCH VOTES"

"Joe Bailey" Attitude Taken by State Convention Denounced by Marshall.

"Anything for votes," seems to be the Democratic cry in Indiana this year.

First came Governor Marshall, in his state convention keynote, demanding of Senator Shively that the tariff plank—then in Shively's hands—be a tariff-for-revenue-only plank.

Then came the plank itself, which ignored tariff for revenue only, and said: "Tariff taxation should be for public purposes only and should be so levied as not to discriminate against any section, class, industry or occupation, and limited to the actual necessities of the government economically administered."

This was a bald bid for votes, implicitly offering assurance that Democrats would not demand tariff revision downward.

In short, the Governor Marshall view was passed by and the Joe Bailey evasion was adopted, with the aid of Senator Shively, on the principle of "anything to catch votes."

Governor Marshall, personally, is demanding an immediate revision of the tariff to a revenue only basis. But there is no echo to his wailing cry.

On the other hand comes John B. Peterson, Democratic nominee for congress in the Tenth district, making the race for office on a protective tariff platform, which is a bold paraphrase of the Indiana Republican platform.

Peterson is a protectionist Democrat. He refuses to stand with Governor Marshall. He refuses even to conceal his position, as Senator Shively tries to do. He makes a bid for votes as a protectionist, from the same platform his opponent stands upon. "Anything to catch votes" seems to apply in his case in a most notable degree.

POLITICAL POINTS

Tom Taggart seems to believe he is the only man who can "crank up" the Democratic auto so it will run right.

Governor Marshall was quick to drop the question of church activity in public affairs. The issue became too hot even for asbestos gloves.

On learning that John W. Kern was in far-away Michigan, Senator Shively promised to come out of the bushes and confer on Democratic campaign plans.

Sam Ralston, Taggart's this year's choice, has supplanted Stokes Jackson at the head of the Democratic campaign in Indiana. Taggart generally has his own way in the end.

Anti-Bryan Democrats in Nebraska cheered when heated orators cursed the Commoner on a state convention floor. The same crowd that downed Mr. Bryan in his home state holds Democratic control in Indiana.

The Taggart press bureau persistently calls attention to the fact that "Governor Marshall and Thomas Taggart addressed the meeting, and were agreed that Democratic prospects," etcetera. The Democratic governor ought to feel flattered by this constant flanking of his own name with that of the Casino boss.

Consumption Claim 4,479

The ravages of consumption in Indiana during 1909, according to a chart prepared by Dr. King of the State Board of Health, resulted in 4479 deaths. Homes numbering 3866 were invaded by consumption during the year. The homes broken up by the loss of a father or a mother numbered 2180. There were 1286 mothers between 18 and 40 years old who died of the disease and 998 fathers of the same age.

Consumption made 4360 children, under the age of 12 years, fatherless or motherless during the year. Young people between the ages of 15 and 25 who died of consumption in 1909 numbered 938. It is estimated by Dr. King that the cost of the sickness, including nurse hire and physicians' services and loss of wages because of sickness and deaths, amounted to $13,934,980.

Message That President Taft Might Send In Now

We Won't Send It But Part of It is Probably In His Mind According to the New York Evening Journal

It was announced the other day that Mr. Taft intended to consult with certain friends about a message soon to be issued.

If he had consulted the Evening Journal, he would have been advised to issue a message directed to the people of the United States, giving it to all the newspapers of the United States to print—they would gladly print it—and the message would read about like this:

From William Howard Taft, President of the United States, to the American citizens who voted for him, and to all other citizens:

I, William Howard Taft, President of the United States chosen and paid by you, American citizens, to attend to the executive management of your government, propose to say a few words to you—as between one American citizen and another.

When you begin criticising me or my Administration, I invite you to look back to the conditions under which I took office.

I succeeded in the White House an earnest, energetic gentleman, who found the United States of America at the height of prosperity and left it in the depths of one of the most dangerous and violent panics.

If you voters were passengers on a ship, in a big storm with the rigging and some of the masts blown away, and if a new captain came on the bridge at that particular moment—You would be apt to have a little patience with him.

You would be willing to give him a chance to turn around, repair the damage, quiet the crew, find out deliberately just what ought to be done.

You wouldn't expect him to still the waves and the storm, and strike up a speed of twenty-five knots an hour all inside of fifteen minutes.

As your President, it is my business first of all to keep the ship going.

My distinguished predecessor felt that he was chosen to make over the ship, to change the course, to alter the compass when it didn't agree with his ideas.

I have no such exalted idea of my own powers or of my task. I was put in office not by a handful of earnest, highly educated reformers and not by some hundreds of thousands of millions of extreme radicals. But by about fifty millions of average conservative citizens.

It is my business to know what they want, what they expect and to try to give it to them. I know first of all they want things kept at least as well as they were. I know that there are millions of men depending on industry for regular wages, and many millions of children depending on those workers for regular food.

I know that it is very easy to experiment with a government or a china shop, and to create a sensation in either. But I don't propose to be a rough rider in government, or a bull in a china shop.

I am going to try to make the corporation obey the law—and I am going to try to do it without producing a panic, and without causing the corporations for any reason whatever to discharge hundreds of thousands of workmen or lower their wages.

I have brains enough to know that our industrial system has changed, that competition has been replaced by organization. And I have sense enough to know that I can not interfere suddenly with a system without seriously interfering with the millions that depend upon a system.

I do not hope to satisfy those who think that an elected individual should put himself above the legislative power and act the part of a Little Father dictating to a lot of children.

I am here to talk to you, frankly and plainly. My main job is to keep things steady while we get over that last panic, keep people at work, keep the milk and the bread and the beef going around from house to house—even if the prices are high.

I hope to do more than that before my first term ends—and still more before the second term—which I mean to have if I deserve it—shall end.

But I ask sensible Americans to realize that it takes at least a few months to repair the crazy work that ends in panic.

And in the most friendly spirit I warn the average level-headed citizen who voted for me, and the average, level-headed citizen who voted against me, that the best way to have the worst panic that any country ever saw, and the quickest way to put a few millions of men out of steady work and steady salaries, is to turn over this country to rampant egotism—to men that would handle and trifle with a great industrial organization as an ignorant child would trifle with a high-powered automobile.

You got your machine pretty nearly wrecked, fellow citizens, and it didn't take very long to do it. Give me a few months anyhow to patch up the remnants—then stand in for another wreck if you feel like it. Yours very truly,

WILLIAM HOWARD TAFT

That isn't of course, what Mr. Taft has said or will say. But it is what he might say. When he entered the White House the country looked as though a tornado had struck it. Millions of men were idle.

Money was so scarce that people paid a bonus for cash, banks were closing, factories were shutting down.

His first task was to restore confidence, without kowtowing to the big rascals of plutocracy and without knuckling down to the rattle-brained that think they know it all.

Level-headed citizens are advised to give Mr. Taft a chance, and to be glad that he, rather than a "rattle-head," is working for them.

Farmers Have Longest Life

Whatever one may think of the advantages of living upon the farm, so far as the pleasures of life are concerned, the United States census bureau has settled it that one can live longer on a farm than anywhere else. In other words the average life of the farmer is longer than that of the city man.

According to mortality articles compiled by the census bureau, covering eighteen States of the union, disease, accidents, and suicides claim fewer victims in rural communities than in the urban centers. Such diseases as tuberculosis, Bright's disease, heart disease and pneumonia are less frequent in the country than in the cities but typhoid fever attacks the farmer more frequently than it does the city dwellers.

Death Rate Has Lowered

The death rate in Vincennes during the month of July surprised that of any other Indiana city, according to the statistics compiled by the State Board of Health. There were 32.9 deaths for every 1,000 of population. East Chicago showed the second highest death rate, 27.9. Births outnumbered deaths 1,320 during the month. The northern sanitary section showed the lowest death rate, 11 per 1,000 population, compared with 13.4 in the central section and 12.2 in the southern section.

The total number of births in the State during July was 4267 of which number, 2,071 were males and 2,067 females. The highest birth rate, 28.6 was in Union County, and the lowest, 5.2 in Crawford county. Total deaths, 2947, were slightly less than for July, 1909, and slightly more than for June, 1910. Deaths, according to ages, were as follows: One year and under, 623; 1 to 5 years, 313; 5 to 10 years, fifty-two; 10 to 15 years, forty-four; 15 to 20 years, eighty-five, and 65 years and over, 725. Death rates based on 1,000 population in cities of more than 10,000 population reported as follows: Indianapolis, 15.8; Evansville, 12.8; Fort Wayne, 12.7; Terre Haute, 21.1; South Bend, 12.9; Muncie, 11.3; Anderson, 12.1; Marion 10.1; Columbus, 7; East Chicago, 27.9; Elkhart 9.3; Elwood, 6.5; Hammond, 12.9; Huntington, 7.9; Jeffersonville, 22.6; Kokomo, 17.1; Lafayette, 12.2; Laporte, 14.1; Logansport, 9.8; Michigan City, 11.5; New Albany, 16.5; Peru, 9.5; Richmond, 16.3; Vincennes, 32.9; Wabash, 7.6; Washington, 9.6.

Diarrhoea was the most prevalent disease during July. Tuberculosis is reported to have caused 370 deaths, pneumonia fifty, typhoid fever forty-five, diphtheria nine and violence 234.

Every general pension law was a Republican law. Every vote against a general pension law has been a Democratic vote. Every pension veto was a Democratic veto.

No doubt the kind gentlemen who have stolen $3,893,304.54 in contingent fees from the Indians in the last twenty years just did it to save the poor souls from investing their unwieldy surplus in firewater.

In the United States last year the average consumption of sugar was 82 pounds for each person, or seven billion pounds in all. One-seventh was beet sugar produced in this country, which is a large gain in an important domestic industry.

Official reports show that a greater proportion of imports are admitted free under the present tariff than under the Dingley law. How many Democratic campaign speakers will venture to touch the figures?

A ludicrous inconsistency of the Democratic party was plainly visible today—the day of the Democratic county convention. Over forty automobiles could be seen standing around the court house, plainly showing that the Democratic farmer is partaking of the Republican prosperity, while at the same time he will sit in convention and pass resolutions denouncing it.

About as good a way to study human nature is when one is driving on the public road. If a man is willing to observe the laws and the courtesies of the road, he will duly give his share of it when meeting another, and shows he is willing to do the gentlemanly thing about it. But when you meet one who takes every advantage of those he meets, and holds the road for his own selfish self often to the great discomfort of those he meets, or will not allow them to pass, one is almost sure to think of pork.

When a Democratic congressman shouts "extravagance" he should be in a position to point to his own official conduct as exemplifying thrift in public life. Congressman Charles A. Korbly is vigorously "against" the seed distribution system. He says it is extravagant. He denounces it. He also criticizes the postal deficit. In order that he might be sure to have both government extravagance and postal deficit to criticize, Mr. Korbly mailed to Indianapolis last spring 65 mailsacks filled with seeds and shrubs for Seventh district constituents. He demonstrated that a congressman actually can "abuse" the "franking" privilege. But he did not succeed in impressing the people with his own consistency or serious purposes. He preached economy, but he failed to practice it.

Officials in the census bureau at Washington now estimate that the work of taking the thirteenth census will cost the government about $15,000,000, or $3,000,000 more than the amount appropriated by Congress. Of the 70,000 enumerators about 67,000 have now been paid off at a cost of about $4,000,000.

Get More Ventilation.

Soon the children will begin their work at school again. The leaves are beginning to turn on some of the city's trees, and the birds have quit singing. Fall is near at hand.

Sometimes the older person will say that the opening of school should be delayed longer, so that the child might have the cool weather for his studying. Cold weather is supposed to give the child more vim and energy and more eagerness for his books and tasks.

The fact is that recent investigations dispute this old superstition. Warm days do call children to the out-of-doors. Naturally they wish to get out of the four walls and to romp and play. Naturally that would be better, it seems to them, than toiling over their books. But to presume from this that the child has less energy, less vitality, during the warm and yet it is not altogether the fact, for the foundation. The fact is that the child has more energy and will do better work when the weather is warm—not because of the weather, but because of the fresh air. This has been demonstrated.

Let a period of cold weather come, and the child "takes cold." We say that the cold weather has "given the child a cold." In a sense this is true, and yet it is not altogether the fact. The cold weather has shut the windows that had been open, has cut off ventilation at home and at school, and has robbed the child of its natural and vital right to breathe the air just as nature makes it to be breathed. It is not the lower temperature, but the closing of the windows that has given the child its "cold."

Give the child the pure air that is its right, and there will be better lessons. Quit worrying about the temperature and begin to worry about ventilation.

Avoid Typhoid.

Rush county and the city of Rushville is particularly free from typhoid fever. There have been few cases in the city since the establishment of the present water wells from which the city plant gets its supply. There are few cases in the county this year, fewer, physicians say, than there have been in previous years. Cities all around Rushville have been fighting off the ravages of typhoid fever during the past month. It might be well, though to take precautions against such a disease.

Typhoid fever is caused by filth, the doctors say. It need not necessarily mean that the person having it is careless, but it does mean that in some way the typhoid germ has been taken into the system. The great need of the people is not medicine to cure the typhoid after it has come, but the knowledge of how and why it comes and how to prevent it.

In the last few years health officers have given special attention to this subject. They have pointed out that flies are one of the chief causes of typhoid fever. The flies bred in filth, often carry the germs on their legs and in touching food, leave these germs. The food is eaten and the germs thus find a way into the system. If there is not a strong constitution the disease develops.

Flies ought to be kept out of the house at this time of the year and from this time forward until they are killed by the cold. And the individual should obey all of the ordinary rules of health in the meantime. Special attention might be given to the food that is eaten. There should not be too much of it, and fruits ought to be added to the menu. Precaution of this sort will reduce the number of typhoid fever cases, and will reduce the relative number of fatal cases when the illness occurs.

ACCOUNTING LAW FORESTS USED HAS OBSTACLES AS PLAYGROUNDS

Who Shall Follow up the Suits Over Shortages Filed by State in Various Counties.

LOCAL WORK BADLY NEEDED

Additional Counsel May be Employed in County Seats Where Cases Come Up.

The question of the advisability of employing attorneys in touch with local conditions and the necessity of providing some means of paying such attorneys in the suits proposed by the attorney general on reports of the field examiners of the State board of accounts has been taken up with the governor's office by James Bingham, attorney general, to whom Governor Marshall certified thirty reports in which shortages due to misfeasance, nonfeasance or malfeasance in office are charged as a result of examinations made in the offices of township trustees.

Mr. Bingham has made clear to the governor's office that the task of prosecuting the suits on the thirty reports certified over and on the seventy-five or more which will be certified over by September 15, according to present plans, would be heavy, and that while his office force could prepare the complaints and look after their filing, the selection of juries, looking after the questions of continuances, motions, etc., would put his office to a severe test that the limited force might not be able to meet.

The attorney general has an annual appropriation of $1,000 for the employment of additional counsel in suits instituted by the State virtually all of which for the current fiscal year remains untouched, but this sum, it is estimated, would not go far toward providing such local counsel as may be needed in the prosecutions about to be set under way in various counties. The question has been raised as to whether the attorney general has power under the public accounting act to draw on the general State treasury for such additional funds as are necessary to enable him to carry out the purposes of the law, but no definite answer to that query has been advanced.

National Reservations Are Source of Recreation For More Than Half Million People Each Year.

JUST NOW BECOMING POPULAR

Forests Offer Finest Scenery, Best Fishing and Big Game Hunting in United States.

Washington, D. C., August 27.—Before the year's outing season is over nearly half a million persons will have sought recreation and health in the National Forests of the United States. According to the record of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, the total last year was, in close figures, 406,775. With the finest mountain scenery and much of the best fishing and big game hunting in the United States, the National Forests, made more and more accessible each year through protection and development by the Government, are fast becoming great National playgrounds for the people.

The use of the Forests for recreation is as yet in its beginning, but is growing steadily and rapidly in some of the Forests at the rate of a hundred per cent. per annum. The day seems not far distant when a million persons will annually visit them.

The records show that the seasonal use of the Forests runs from two months in a Colorado Forest, such as the Routt, to twelve months in an Alaskan, such as the Tongass. But the uses differ. In Colorado the 2000 visitors entered the Forests to fish, to camp, to climb, and to drink the medicinal waters; in Alaska the 1000 almost solely to hunt and fish. The 21,000 persons who went into the Coconino Forest, Arizona, during nine months, went to camp or to enjoy the scenery. During four months 50,000 persons visited the Angeles, California. The most popular of the Forests is the Pike, containing the famous peak of that name. The various attraction within its limits, including the scenic railway, drew 100,000 tourists and others. By principal States the National Forests visitors numbered 23,000 in Arizona, 103,000 in California, 140,000 in Montana, 10,000 in New Mexico, 33,000 in Oregon, 22,000 in Idaho, 16,000 in Utah, and 12,000 in Washington.

Of the natural wonders and landmarks of interest in the National Forests several have been set apart as National Monuments, among them Cinder Cone, a great lava basin in California; the Gila Cliff Dwellings, extensive remains of a prehistoric race in New Mexico; the unsurpassed Grand Canyon of the Colorado, in Arizona; Jewel Cave, South Dakota; Lassen Peak, the terminus of a long line of a long line of extinct volcanoes in the Cascades; the Pinnacles, a collection of remarkable jagged peaks in California; and the Tonto, a group of prehistoric ruins in the Tonto Forest in Arizona. The Big Trees, Glacier Park, the Petrified Forests, the Oregon Caves, and numerous other phenomena serve to attract other hosts of visitors.

The sportsman finds his paradise in the National Forests. In many of them big game abounds. The rangers and guards, besides the service they perform against the spread of fire, often point out the best site for the camper and the easiest route. A record of 9218 miles of trail cut, 1236 miles of road laid out, and 4851 miles of telephone line strung tells what the Government has done in the way of pushing the conveniences of civilization into the primeval forest. The day of the wilderness of the savage and the pioneer is swiftly passing; the day of the National Forests as productive resources and as National parks approaches. The report of last year's administration by the U. S. Department of Agriculture evidences the rapidity of the transformation.

The French government is considering making Greenwich time the compulsory standard for that nation instead of the local time of Paris, now generally used.

The Girl and the Bill

"Even in America," commented the minister, "the friend of the injured man might see that his hurt was avenge. The man who caused the accident should be made to suffer."

"Oh, no," said Orme. "If the matter were pressed at all, the correct thing to do would be to arrest the man with the broken leg. He had stolen the papers in the first place. Harm came to him, when he tried to escape with the papers after stealing them. But as a matter of fact, the average American would consider the affair at an end."

"Your story and mine are dissimilar," remarked the minister.

"Perhaps. But they involve a similar question: Whether a man should yield passively to a power that appears to be stronger than his own. In America we do not yield passively unless we understand all the bearings of the case, and see that it is right to yield."

At this moment a motor car came up the drive. "There's our car, Bob," said Bessie. "Wait a moment, while I get my wraps. I know that you are impatient to go."

"I know that you are a good friend," he whispered, as she arose.

He did not care to remain with the group in Bessie's absence. With a bow, he turned to stroll by himself down the veranda. But the minister jumped to his feet and called:

"Mr. Orme!" Orme looked back. "Please be so good as to return," continued the minister.

With mere politeness, Orme halted, and took a step back toward his chair.

An air of startled expectancy was manifest in the position taken by the different members of the group. The minister's voice had sounded sharp and authoritative, and he now stepped forward a pace or two, stopping at a point where the light from one of the clubhouse windows fell full on his face. Clearly he was laboring under great excitement.

"You have something to say to me?" inquired Orme. He foresaw an effort to detain him.

"I am compelled to ask the ladies to leave us for a few minutes," said the minister, seriously. "There is a matter of utmost importance."

He bowed. The women, hesitating in their embarrassment, rose and walked away, leaving the half-dozen men standing in a circle.

"I find myself in an awkward position," began the minister, slowly. "I am a guest of your club, and I should never dream of saying what I must say, were my own personal affairs alone involved. Let me urge that no one leave until I have done."

For a tense moment he was silent. Then he went on:

"Gentlemen, while we were talking together here, I had in my pocket certain papers of great importance to my country. In the last few minutes they have disappeared. I regret to say it—but, gentlemen, some one has taken them."

There was a gasp of astonishment. "I must even open myself to the charge of abusing your hospitality rather than let the matter pass. If I could only make you understand how grave it is"—he was brilliantly impressive. Just the right shade of reluctance colored his earnestness.

"I have every reason to think," he continued, "that the possession of those papers would be of immense personal advantage to the man who has been sitting at my right—Mr. Orme."

"This is a serious charge, excellency," exclaimed one of the men. "I am aware of that. But I am obliged to ask you not to dismiss it hastily. My position and standing are known to you. When I tell you that these papers are of importance to my country, you can only in part realize how great that importance is. Gentlemen, I must ask Mr. Orme whether he has the papers."

Orme saw that the minister's bold stroke was having its effect. He decided quickly to meet it with frankness. "The papers to which his excellency refers," he said quietly, "are in my pocket."

Several of the men exclaimed. "But," Orme went on, "I did not take them from his excellency. On the contrary, his agents have for some time been using every device to steal them from me. They have failed, and now he is making a last attempt by trying to persuade you that they belong to him."

"I submit that this smart answer does not satisfy my charge," cried the minister.

"Do you really wish to go further?" demanded Orme. "Would you like me to explain to these men what those papers really mean?"

"If you do that, you betray my country's secrets."

Orme turned to the others. "His excellency and I are both guests here," he said. "Leaving his official position out of the question, my word must go as far as his. I assure you that he has no claim at all upon the papers in my pocket."

"That is not true!"

The minister's words exploded in a sharp staccato.

"In this country," said Orme, calmly, "we knock men down for words like that. In Japan, perhaps, the lie can be passed with impunity."

"Gentlemen, I ask that Mr. Orme be detained," exclaimed the minister furiously.

"I will not be detained," said Orme. The other men were whispering among themselves, and at last one of them stepped forward as spokesman. "This is a serious matter for the club," he said. "I suggest, Mr. Orme, that we go to the library"—he glanced significantly at the other groups on the veranda—"where no one can overhear us, and talk the matter over quietly."

"But that will exactly fit in with his scheme," exclaimed Orme, heatedly. "He knows that, in the interests of our own country"—he hazarded this—"I must be at a certain place before midnight. He will use every means to delay me—even to charging me with theft."

"What is that?" Bessie Wallingham's voice broke in upon them. "Is any one daring to accuse Bob Orme?"

In her long, gray silk motor cloak, with the filmy chiffon veil bound about her hat, she startled them, like an apparition.

The spokesman explained. "His excellency says that Mr. Orme has stolen some papers from him."

"Then his excellency is at fault," said Bessie, promptly. "I vouch for Mr. Orme. He is Tom's best friend, and Tom is one of the governors of the club. Come, Bob."

She turned away decisively, and Orme recognized the advantage she had given him, and strode after her. From noises behind him he gathered that the men were holding the minister back by main force.

CHAPTER XVIII.

The Goal.

The chauffeur was opening the door of the waiting car. It was a black car—a car with strangely familiar lines. Orme started. "Where did that come from?" he demanded.

Bessie smiled at him. "That is my surprise for you. My very dear friend, whom you so much desire to see, telephoned me here this evening and asked me to spend the night with her instead of returning to Chicago. She promised to send her car for me. It was long enough coming, goodness knows, but if it had appeared sooner, I should have gone before you arrived."

Orme understood. The girl had telephoned to Bessie while he waited there on La Salle street. She had planned a meeting that would satisfy him with full knowledge of her name and place. And the lateness of the car in reaching Arradale was unquestionably owing to the fact that it had not set out on its errand until after the girl reached home and gave her chauffeur the order. Orme welcomed this evidence that she had got home safely.

Bessie jumped lightly into the tonneau, and Orme followed. The car glided from the grounds. Eastward it went, through the pleasant, rolling farming country, that was wrapped in the beauty of the starry night. They crossed a bridge over a narrow creek.

"You would hardly think," said Bessie, "that this is so-called north branch of the Chicago river."

"I would believe anything about that river," he replied.

She laughed nervously. He knew that she was suppressing her natural interest in the scene she had witnessed on the veranda; yet, of course, she was expecting some explanation.

"Bessie," he said, "I am sorry to have got into such a mess there at the club. The Japanese minister was the last man I wanted to see."

She did not answer.

"Perhaps your friend—whom we are now going to visit—will explain things

CHICHESTER'S PILLS

THEY PROMOTE BRISK BOWELS, and are the most reliable and pleasant of all purgatives. They are sold by druggists everywhere.

AN EASY AND HARMLESS WAY TO DARKEN THE HAIR.

Who does not know of the value of sage and sulphur for keeping the hair dark, soft, glossy and in good condition? As a matter of fact, sulphur is a natural element of hair, and a deficiency of it in the hair is held by many scalp specialists to be connected with loss of color and vitality of the hair. Unquestionably, there is no better remedy for hair and scalp troubles, especially premature graying, than sage and sulphur, if properly prepared. The Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, put up an ideal preparation of this kind, called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur. It is sold by all leading druggists for 50c. and $1.00 a bottle, or is sent direct by the manufacturers upon receipt of price.

For sale and recommended by Hargrove & Mullin.

DANDRUFF AND ITCHING SCALP YIELDS TO THIS TREATMENT

Why experiment trying to drive the dandruff germ from underneath the skin with greasy lotions or fancy hairdressing when F. E. Wolcott's Drug Store will guarantee ZEMO and ZEMO soap to entirely rid the scalp of the germ life that causes the trouble.

ZEMO and ZEMO soap can be obtained in any city or town in America and are recognized the best and most economical treatment for all affections of the skin or scalp whether on infant or grown person. One shampoo with ZEMO soap and application of ZEMO will stop itching and cleanse the scalp of dandruff and seurf.

We invite you to try ZEMO and ZEMO soap and if not entirely satisfied we will refund your money.

a little," he went on. "I can tell you only that I had in my pocket certain papers which the Jap would have given much to get hold of. He tried it by accusing me of stealing them from him. It was very awkward."

"I understand better than you think," she said, suddenly. "Don't you see, you big stupid, that I know where we are going? That tells me something. I can put two and two together."

"Then I needn't try to do any more explaining of things I can't explain."

"Of course not. You are forgiven all. Just think, Bob, it's nearly a year since you stood up with Tom and me."

"That's so!"

"How time does go! See"—as the car turned at a crossing—"we are going northward. We are bound for the village of Winnetka. Does that tell you anything?"

"Nothing at all," said Orme, striving vainly to give the Indian name a place in his mind.

On they sped. Orme looked at his watch. It was half-past ten.

"We must be nearly there," he said.

"Yes, it's only a little way, now."

They were going eastward again, following a narrow dirt road. Suddenly the chauffeur threw the brakes on hard. Orme and Bessie, thrown forward by the sudden stopping, clutched the sides of the car. There was a crash, and they found themselves in the bottom of the tonneau.

Orme was unharmed. "Are you all right, Bessie?" he asked.

"All right." Her voice was cheery.

He leaped to the road. The chauffeur had descended and was hurrying to the front of the car.

"What was it?" asked Orme.

"Some one pushed a wheelbarrow into the road just as we were coming."

"A wheelbarrow!"

"Yes, sir. There it is."

Orme looked at the wheelbarrow. It was wedged under the front of the car. He peered off into the field at the left. Dimly he could see a running figure, and he hastily climbed the rail fence and started in pursuit.

It was a hard sprint. The running man was fast on his feet, but his speed did not long serve him, for he stumbled and fell. He did not rise, and Orme, coming up, for the moment supposed him to be stunned.

Bending over, he discovered that the prostrate man was panting hard, and digging his hands into the turf.

"Get up," commanded Orme.

The man got to his knees and, turning, raised supplicating hands.

"Portol!" exclaimed Orme.

"On, Mr. Orme, spare me. It was an accident." His face worked convulsively. "I—I—" Something like a sob escaped him, and Orme again found himself divided between contempt and pity.

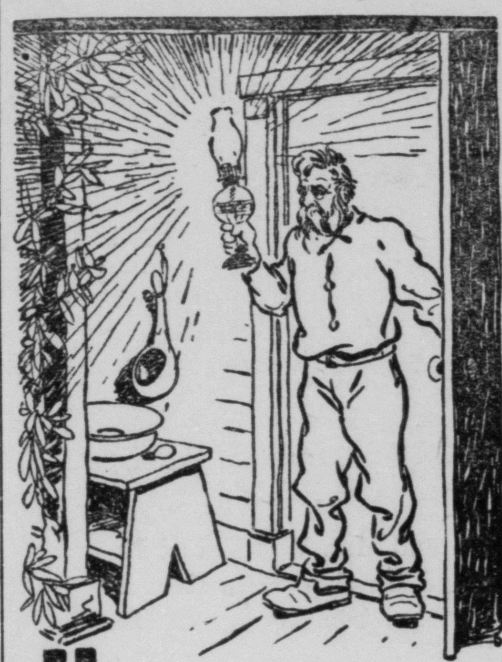

"What were you doing with that wheelbarrow?"

Portol kept his frightened eyes on Orme's face, but he said nothing.

"Well, I will explain it. You followed the car when it started for Arradale. You waited here, found a wheelbarrow, and tried to wreck us. It is further evidence of your comic equipment that you should use a wheelbarrow."

Portol got to his feet. "You are mistaken, dear Mr. Orme. I—I—" Orme smiled grimly. "Stop," he said. "Don't explain. Now I want you to stay right here in this field for a half hour. Don't budge. If I catch you outside, I'll take you to the nearest jail."

IS SUCCESS IN THE WEST

"Big Wednesday" Has Been Established in Oskaloosa, Iowa, and is Crowned With Success.

COPIED AFTER LOCAL PLAN

Former Rushville Man Read of Bargain Day Here and Then Instituted One There.

The fame of "Big Wednesday" is spreading far and near in the far west and the near east. The best thing about it is the fact that it is reaping a harvest and the efforts of the local business men are not without reward in other cities. The latest achievement of the local bargain day is the establishment of a "Big Wednesday" in the "tall and uncut," the wild and woolly west, where middle-western people believe people who would not know a bargain if they saw one, live. But they have a bargain day out in Oskaloosa, Iowa, and it is now a permanent institution.

The establishment of "Big Wednesday" in the far-away western town all came about from the fact that "Big Wednesday" first existed here. J. B. Doll, who formerly owned a restaurant here, read in the Daily Republican of "Big Wednesday" here. He watched it grow with each successive attempt and he became interested. His curiosity soon got the upper hand and he sent a letter of inquiry, asking about the workings of the bargain day. He was accommodated by return mail. A big bill, with which the day is advertised, was sent to him along with a letter, thoroughly explaining the practical workings of the feature day. Here is the result as told by a daily paper of Oskaloosa, Iowa:

The first "Big Wednesday" in Oskaloosa is not likely to be the last. The success of bargain day has met all expectations. Practically every business house in town, and some of them were fairly swamped with business. Town and country people came early and snapped up the bargains offered. Naturally some lines of business, where seasonable goods were, enjoyed the greatest trade. One house reported the sale of $800 worth of goods before 10 o'clock in the morning and another merchant, who had objected to the location of his card in the big advertisements sent out, said he guessed the people read it all right. All the goods in that particular line offered at a bargain had been carried off before noon. Another business house that has a branch store at Albia sent for a car load of goods after his stock was depleted and was fortunate in getting the goods in the afternoon in time to satisfy an additional large number of customers. Hundreds of people enjoyed the programs at the picture shows in the afternoon and apparently in every way the day has proven satisfactory to both business men and customers.

A feature of Oskaloosa's "Big Wednesday" was a concert in the evening in the park at seven-thirty o'clock by the Iowa Brigade Band. Director Will Beckman prepared an attractive program for the occasion.

COUNCIL LET CONTRACTS

$3,302.38 to be Spent in Piping Water From Flatrock.

The city council met in adjourned meeting last night and let the contract to furnish supplies to pipe water from Flatrock to the boilers at the city water and light plant. There were twenty-three bids for the contract and after a quite lengthy deliberation they awarded the contract for the pump to Latta Martin Co., at $1,050; for tank and tower to Flint Walling Mfg. Co. at $1,110.50; for pipe to run to the river, the same firm from Flint at $1,101.88. This brings the total sum to $3,302.38.

G. A. Abbott, Who is Brother of Mrs. T. A. Craig, is Asked $5,000 for Breach of Promise.

IS NOW LIVING AT FARGO, N. D.

G. A. Abbott, who is a brother of Mrs. T. A. Craig, and a college classmate of John Abernethy and Donald Smith, had a breach of promise suit filed against him yesterday by Miss Ina Tinder in the district court at Minneapolis. Mr. Abbott was formerly head of the chemistry department at Manual Training high school in Indianapolis, and is well known in the educational circles of the State. Miss Tinder alleges that Mr. Abbott had led her to the county clerk's office to get the license before he decided that he did not want her as a wife. The plaintiff asks that $5,000 damages be given her. Mr. Abbott is now the head of the chemistry department of an agricultural college at Fargo, North Dakota.

NEW LAW IS NOT FOUND WANTING

Renter Must Return Keys to Landlord Within 24 Hours After Vacating Property.

FINE PAID UNDER STATUTE

A new law has been passed, which is a very peculiar one, in that it is new and has not been proven practical yet. It requires that tenants return keys to landlords or their agents within twenty-four hours after the vacation of premises or property. The law was passed during the last legislature and has never come to notice here, although there have been instances when it could have been used. The law was tested at New Albany, Ind., a few days ago and was found to come up to the expectation of the law makers. Grover Neff was fined $8.85 by a justice of the peace and paid the fine without a murmur. He did not appeal the case to test it out in the higher courts.

EXPENSES ARE BEING ESTIMATED

The Work of Assessor Next Year Will Cost More Than it Ordinarily Has.

TO FIX VALUE OF REAL ESTATE

The township assessors are filing with the county auditor their budget of expenses of their offices for the 1911 assessment. The expense accounts include the assessors' office expenses and the salaries of deputies. It is required that the expense account be filed before the September meeting of the commissioners.

The assessment expenses for 1911 will be larger than usual on account of the estimates to be placed on real estate subject to taxation. The assessors both township and county will require additional help to meet the task which comes every four years.

The township trustees are also filing with the county commissioners estimates of the costs of all bridges contemplated in their respective townships, costing over $75.

THE COLONEL AT CHEYENNE

Great Doings for the Traveler's Entertainment.

COWBOYS IN THE ASCENDANT

Wild Western Stunts Without Number Were Put on for the Pleasure of T. R. and His Followers, Who Have Been Given Their Fill of Those Gentle Pastimes and Recreations That Fire the Heart of the Cowboy.

Cheyenne, Wyo., Aug. 27.—The Roosevelt party arrived in Cheyenne early this morning and bucking bronchos, flying aborigines, races, roping contests, war dances—everything that fires the heart of the cowboy—has been on view for the colonel and his followers today, and T. R. did a few stunts himself, making a speech that called out the most enthusiastic whoops of his much mixed audience.

Archie Roosevelt, who got on the train and rode from Omaha to Fremont, wanted to come along, but he could not. His father regretted it. George Ade, however, is among those present, his mission with the special being to tell stories to the correspondents in the car behind the engine.

At Omaha James R. Garfield, the ex-secretary of the interior, joined Mr. Roosevelt and said that he would stick to him until after the hurrah at Denver on Monday. Mr. Garfield did not bring Mr. Pinchot with him, but he promised that the deposed chief forester would be on hand for Ossawatimie and St. Paul.

Council Bluffs turned itself upside down to give the colonel a noisy welcome. Congressman Walter Smith of the Cannon forces at Washington, took Mr. Roosevelt in tow and drove him in an automobile through the city. In the public square the colonel made an address. Mr. Smith hailed T. R. as the most distinguished American, but Mr. Smith was not asked to speak, while Senator Dolliver was.

The colonel has repeated his intention to go to the convention at Saratoga and to fight to the last ditch. Judging from the manner in which he is going after corporations and corporations in his western speeches, the colonel will be prime to slam the Woodruff-Barnes-Wadsworth combine when he gets back to New York.

They like Roosevelt in the west. They like him just as much as they ever did, if the folks in Iowa and Nebraska and Wyoming stand for the spirit of this country. These who would whoop it up for the colonel in 1912 are going a little easier on that score than they thought they would. He has heard them demand his nomination two years hence, but the demands have been made from station platforms, and there has been no chance thus far to discover the crystallized attitude.

His trip through Iowa and Nebraska yesterday, when he shot through the towns and touched such cities as Council Bluffs and Omaha, showed a distinct heartiness toward Mr. Roosevelt. When he reviled the corporations that are corrupt and indorsed them when they are good the crowds cheered him. When he spoke about public crooks and the relation of the corrupt business men to the political machine, they yelled louder than ever.

The insurgent west turned out in large numbers to greet the colonel and along the line. Senator Cummins of Iowa came on from Ames to Council Bluffs to chat with Mr. Roosevelt and to tell him how much they think of him. Their meeting did not contain any more significance than many visits of a similar nature at Sagamore Hill this summer. The senator said that he was pleased at the reception Roosevelt got, and that he believes the Republicans will win in his home state, which the colonel said was one of the finest of the Union. Speeding into the territory of the progressive has not caused the colonel to forget the fight that is going to be waged in New York. When he heard of Timothy L. Woodruff's statement concerning the issue at home, the colonel was aroused to issue a little statement of his own. He put himself in with the progressives, but he said that it referred merely to New York and not to the country at large. The progressives, said he, are emphatically in favor of taking a real step forward about direct primaries substantially on the lines of Governor Hughes's proposition. He stands against bossism, not only at the elections, but within the party organization. He promises to wage a ruthless war against every species of corruption and against the alliance between corrupt bosses and corrupt business men.

The colonel has indicated in all his talks since he left Oyster Bay that he will go into the Saratoga convention ready to fight with every ounce of energy that he has got. He is after the scalps of Woodruff, Barnes, Wadsworth & Co., and he will get them unless the omens fail. Sherman is also included. Not the slightest reference has been made to the administration since the colonel started west.

President Taft will use the armored cruiser Tennessee, which is a flagship, for his trip to Panama in November. The Montana, a sister ship, will go along as escort, carrying newspaper and magazine men.

COMMITTEE ALSO CLEARED M'GUIRE

Intimation in Gore Charges Declared Baseless.

Guthrie, Okla., Aug. 27.—When the house investigation committee concluded its hearings, the three members present immediately issued a letter to Congressman McGuire of Oklahoma, completely exonerating him and declaring that "there was no evidence whatever to sustain any charges or suggestion that he (McGuire) had or has any interest in the so-called McMurray contracts, or in any other contracts."

When Senator Gore made his charge in the senate he declared a member of the house and a member of the senate was interested in the contract, according to the man alleged to have offered him the bribe. A later statement left no doubt that McGuire was the house man referred to. McGuire asked the house rules be suspended and that a committee be named for investigation. Before leaving Sulphur the committee issued a statement exonerating Vice President Sherman and Senator Curtis.

Action was not taken with reference to Congressman McGuire at that time, as hearings were still to be held in McGuire's district.

SIBLEY ILL

Former Congressman Unable to Face Court When Case Was Called.

Warren, Pa., Aug. 27.—Waiving a hearing on the information which charges them with conspiring to defraud the electors of Warren county, Joseph C. Sibley of Franklin, who recently resigned his place as candidate for congress on the Republican ticket in this district, and Frank H. Taylor of Franklin and Charles B. Crandall, George B. Munn and D. M. Howard of this county, were held for court trial by Justice Perry. All of the defendants were present except Sibley, whose physicians furnished certificates that he is too ill to leave his home.

OUT OF THE RACE

Mr. Bryan Says He Will Not Be a Candidate in 1912.

Kalamazoo, Mich., Aug. 27.—"I will not be a candidate for president in 1912," declared W. J. Bryan at Kalamazoo. This is the first time the Nebraskan has positively stated that he will not make an effort to secure the nomination for the presidency in 1912. "There is plenty of good material in the party, but who will be the candidate for president on the Democratic ticket depends upon what the next congress does," continued Mr. Bryan.

SHERMAN AND BARNES
Around Whom New York State Old Guard Will Rally.

ANYTHING TO GET RID OF TEDDY, THEY SAY

Old Guard Would Sacrifice New York to That End.

New York, Aug. 27.—The source of the statements which asserted that the leaders of the regular faction in the Republican organization had made up their minds to nominate Mr. Roosevelt for governor at the Saratoga convention, was William Barnes, jr., the Albany boss. During the last three days Mr. Barnes has talked a great deal to the reporters who have called upon him, and while he has been careful to insist that he should not be quoted, he has made no objection to their repeating in an indirect way the views he holds in the present situation. Both Barnes and Woodruff gave the impression to the reporters that Mr. Roosevelt has created such a condition of affairs in this state that the election next November will go against the Republicans. They intimate that as Roosevelt will be the cause of the defeat, as the outlook now seems to show, he should be made to take the responsibility for it, and that the best way of putting that responsibility on his shoulders will be to nominate him for governor. The proposal is to nominate Mr. Roosevelt by acclamation, which would mean that he would have to take the nomination. Then, and there is no pretense at secrecy at the Republican state headquarters on this point, the old guard would at once begin plans for the knifing of Mr. Roosevelt in the event of his nomination.

"We are ready to sacrifice the state to get rid of Roosevelt," is the way some of the leaders of the old guard have expressed it.

When Mr. Barnes was told that Colonel Roosevelt in a speech at Carroll, Ia., stated that the main issue in this state was the struggle against bossism, he replied, grimly, "Did he say that? Well, that's one point at which I'm with him, anyway."

Killed by Slight Shock.
Gary, Ind., Aug. 27.—When Albert Dome, aged twenty-one, was killed by a 220-volt shock in the universal plate mill of the local plant of the Illinois Steel company, electrical engineers said that the world's record for death from a slight shock was broken. Heretofore the record for killing a man was 240 volts, and this was regarded as phenomenal. Men in the Gary plant have received as high as 6,000 volts and have lived.
